

Doing Democracy: Photography from the George Stephanopoulos Collection

South Bethlehem Greenway

New Street to Trone Street

Explore reproductions of twenty-two photographs from the Doing Democracy exhibition along a 1.9-mile stretch of the South Bethlehem Greenway, from S. New Street to Trone Street by the Bethlehem Skate Plaza.

As you view these photographs, listen to the perspectives of Lehigh students with the accompanying free digital guide. Simply point your smartphone at the QR code displayed next to each photograph to access the digital videos. We recommend that you bring headphones/earbuds for the best experience.

The twenty-two reproductions of the photographs may be viewed in any sequence. To view the entire outdoor exhibition we recommend starting your self-guided tour at either S. New Street, or Trone Street, and walking the length of the Greenway. Metered street parking is available near the Greenway, as well as the S. New Street Parking Garage and Skate Plaza Parking Lot on Steel Street.

This outdoor exhibition is on view through August, 2021, and is presented in partnership with the SouthSide Arts District.

We hope you will also view the exhibition of the original photographs in our Main Gallery in Zoellner Arts Center. Due to Covid, be sure to check our current public hours, as well as any special instructions for visiting campus during the pandemic.
